1. The joint staff section of the North Korean and Chinese Communist Armies is at Yangdok (126-38, 39-13).
2. Strong defense positions are being built south of Sinup (126-47, 39-55).
3. The commanders of the I, II, and XI Corps were called before the officer section of the General Affairs Bureau. A member of the North Korean cabinet believes this is because of the low morale of the North Korean troops.
4. The XV and XVI Corps¹ have been assigned to the second defense line in the central sector. The commander of the XV Corps is Major General CHONG Sin-ku. Commander of the XVI Corps is Lieutenant General Che Hyon.²
5. The I and VI Corps are constructing a defense line extending north of Changdan (126-45, 37-56) to Korangp'ori (126-50, 37-59) to Sibyon-ni (126-42, 38-18). The II Corps will fight a delaying action to this line.
6. On 5 June the V and VI Corps were reorganized at Chunghwa (125-47, 38-51) and were transferred to Ichon (126-53, 38-30).
7. A mission to reorganize the Korean army in Manchuria, composed of Major General HA In-tu, Lieutenant General CHON Chol-u, and ten others, has left Korea for Manchuria.
8. Three hundred guerrilla graduates of the officer training school at Hoeryong (126-23, 38-36) and 600 others, believed to be former ROK Army persons captured and indoctrinated by the Communists, were organized into six detachments and sent south via Kangwon Province and central mountain ridges. They will try to infiltrate in groups of 20 to 30.
9. Chinese Communist troop locations are as follows:
 - a. The 27 and 28 Divisions, 3 Field Army³ moved from Koksan to P'yongyang.
 - b. The 58 and 60 Divisions, 4 Field Army⁴ are constructing a defense line in the Sariwon-Hungsu (126-02, 38-28) area.
